A remarkable artist, Karrin Allyson is also an activist who feels equally comfortable on the bandstand, as she does at the podium making the case for women's rights. Now, in the midst of unprecedented challenges to human rights (in general), The Karrin Allyson Sextet's latest album, Shoulder to Shoulder, aims to re-create the multi-decade debate - warts and all - that culminated in the enactment of the nineteenth amendment, which gave women the right to vote. "We want to highlight this significant movement in American history. One that we shouldn't forget and that is relevant today. It's also one in which music played an important role," says Allyson. Among the many guests joining the cause are Madeleine Peyroux, Harry Belafonte, Roseanne Cash, and Lalah Hathaway.
